L'Art Campanaire, suite francaise pour carillon, is a performance by JACQUES LANNOY, the Maitre Carillonneur de Douai, of an exquisite collection of centuries-old compositions including "Danceries du Grand Siecle", which is made up of six pieces by Desmarests, Monteclair, Lascoste, J. Aubert and J. J. Mouret - all European master musicians of their time. This gatefold album was issued in 1973 by Arion Records, #ARN 34 190, a specialty French label releasing various types of classical and "world music" before that genre ever came to be known. Other compositions on this audiophile release are: "Marche Francaise" by J. B. Lulli; "Air Pour Trompettes Et Fifres" by J. J. Mouret; "Le Timpanon (air et variations) by J. F. D'Andrieu; "Trois Pieces Pour Clavecin" by F. Couperin; "Menuet" by J. Exaudet; "Gavotte De L'Opera - Athys" by J. B. Lulli; "Le Coucou" by C. Daquin; and "Gigue" by F. Couperin - all proving the power of percussion as realized through these massive bells, le carillon du Beffroi de Douai.
